The Trader's Grand Opera House was well filled Tuesday evening on the occasion of the presentation of Theodore Kre-mer's companion play to "The Fatal Wedding," entitled "For Her Children's Sake." The production is a dramatic play full of love and adventure and tragedy and is above the average productions of this class. The parts were well rendered and the large audience was much pleased with the play throughout.

Misses Flora Brooks, of Clarksburg, and Alice Petro, of Wilsonburg, who
